The TMS Technology

The Issuer is in the business of researching, developing and commercializing a process to use microwave energy and related process technologies to transform coal and other aggregates into higher quality and higher value industrial materials (the "TMS Technology"). The TMS Technology is a proprietary on-site process that is primarily being designed to dehydrate high moisture coals at or near power utilities prior to use for power generation. The TMS Technology is being designed to help accelerate the existing trend of fuel switching to lower-rank, cleaner burning subbituminous coals, including Powder River Basin (Western) coal.

The Issuer

The Issuer completed construction and commissioning of its commercial demonstration plant in King William, Virginia (the "Virginia Facility") in June 2015. The Virginia Facility was designed to demonstrate the operation of the TMS Technology while also serving as a testing facility for the Issuer's research and development personnel to optimize and refine the TMS Technology processes for commercial application. The Virginia Facility is situated on a five-acre parcel of leased land in the Fontaine Industrial Park where, in addition to the processing plant, the Issuer has a research laboratory and a coal storage building.

As part of its global growth objectives, the Issuer has entered into joint venture agreements for two key coal markets: China and India. As part of the Chinese joint venture, the Issuer's majority-owned Hong Kong subsidiary has leased a coal research and development center ("Songjiang Facility") in the Songjiang District of Shanghai, China. The proximity of the Songjiang Facility to the Asian coal markets is expected to allow it to fulfill its primary function, which is to receive and evaluate Asian coals for TMS Technology upgrading. In India, the Issuer is in the process of establishing a marketing and sales office with its joint venture partner in Ahmedabad, Gujarat Province.

The Issuer's goal is to become a global leader in industrial microwave upgrading processes. To this end, in addition to the TMS Technology, the Issuer is also researching the development of proprietary microwave penetration analytical systems and high capacity microwave transmitters with potential applications in a variety of industries.

Business and Operations For August

The Issuer continued testing and optimizing its material handling and process systems at the Virginia Facility. The Issuer is currently pursuing a structured research program whereby various types of coal (and possibly other materials) are being tested and analysed, including for maximum permitted material throughout, total energy consumption and recycled water analysis.

For resource companies, provide details of new drilling, exploration or production programs and acquisitions of any new properties and attach any mineral or oil and gas or other reports required under Ontario securities law.
